INDUSTRIAL MARKET OVERVIEW

SEAN OFFERS, SIOR, Principal

The Tri-Valley Industrial Market continued to move along during the 3rd Quarter of 2023. Activity across the board has remained stable despite the Fed continuing to raise interest rates. Sales continued to remain steady with pricing continuing to be relatively stable, but we have noticed a shift downward in Lease rates. There have been a handful of Subleases to hit the market and with more available options on the market, many Landlords have been amicable to slightly coming off of asking rents in order to attract a Tenant. With activity and demand remaining steady and if the Fed does halt raising interest rates, we believe that the remainder of the year will remain strong.
