Jim Simpson represents Chiorino America

ATLANTA, GA — June 14, 2018 — Jim Simpson, Senior Director at Lee & Associates Atlanta, represented Chiorino America with an opening of a new location in the Atlanta area.

The 52,000 square foot facility, located in Suwanee, Georgia, will become the central stocking and fabrication location for Chiorino in the Americas. The company is in the process of recruiting a number of key management positions as well as customer service, technical support, and fabrication employees for the new Suwanee location. “We are excited to make this considerable investment in facilities, equipment, and inventory”, Chiorino America President Bert Flieger informs, “but the most important investment we are making is in our people, with the accelerated training of our existing staff, and the hiring of new customer focused team members. Our goal is superior customer service, and these investments will help us achieve this.”

Chiorino, established in 1906 in Biella, Italy where headquarters is still based, is one of the leading manufacturers of lightweight conveyor belts and flat transmission belts, with recognized leadership within the Food, Printing & Paper, and Material Handling industries. The Group’s more than 850 employees provides mission-critical products for many manufacturing processes and prides itself on flexible manufacturing and product development, outstanding know-how in raw material processing, and excellent customer service.
