

OFFICE MARKET OVERVIEW

CHRISTOPHER LARIMORE, Founding Principal

The Tri-Cities Class A office market continues to face challenging conditions with high vacancy rates at record levels of 17.9%. This is due to tenants leaving, leading to negative absorption. The asking rent has flatlined quarter-over-quarter, and it is expected to continue declining due to market weakness. The subletting shares have decreased slightly and now account for 14.4% of the available space. Additionally, new construction of almost half a million square feet has entered the market. There have been no sales for three consecutive quarters, which is well below the historical activity, providing less clarity on the impact on pricing.
