

RETAIL MARKET OVERVIEW

CHARLES LANIER, MBA, CLS, CSM, CRX, Vice President

As the country frets about a possible recession, the Durham retail market remains strong with low vacancies and strong demand in the Downtown and I-40 corridors. Large tech/biomedical companies are adding jobs in the area, attracting new retailers to the market, and driving retail rents upward. Tenants are entering into bidding wars for spaces in highly desirable locations. New projects like Lata Park in north Durham, scheduled for delivery in 2024, are quoting rents in the upper $30s and TICAM charges over $6.50/sf are becoming more commonplace. Rents near the Streets at Southpoint are breaking the $40/sf barrier. In the short term, vacancy rates are anticipated to remain low until more inventory is delivered to satisfy the strong demand.
